

Co-funded by the Erasmus+ Programme
of the European Union

The European Commission's support for the production of this publication does not constitute an endorsement of the contents, which reflect the views only of the authors, and the Commission cannot be held responsible for any use which may be made of the information contained therein.

Arguing your position

- Give the students statements within the area you are studying
- First, ask them to individually mark whether they believe that
- the statements are true or false
- When two agree, they write down a reason why it is true or false.
- The pairs then meet with another pair and discuss their thoughts and justifications.
- The statements on which they disagree are investigated further as far as possible.
- Presentation and discussion in whole class